CITATION AND ORDER

ILLEGAL MARKETING OF SIGNAL JAMMING DEVICE

Adopted: October 15, 2012

Released: October 15, 2012

By the Chief, Spectrum Enforcement Division, Enforcement Bureau:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. This is an official CITATION AND ORDER (Citation) issued pursuant to Section 503(b)(5) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (Communications Act),<sup>1</sup> to Jason Carpenter and Dancing Bear Technologies, Tupelo, Mississippi (collectively, Dancing Bear Technologies or “you”) for marketing illegal signal jamming devices (jamming devices or jammers) by repeatedly posting classified advertisements for these devices on Craigslist.org<sup>2</sup> in willful and repeated violation of Section 302(b) of the Communications Act<sup>3</sup> and Sections 2.803 and 15.201(b) of the Federal Communications Commission (Commission or FCC) rules (Rules).<sup>4</sup>

2. Jamming devices, such as cell phone jammers and GPS blockers, pose serious risks to critical public safety communications and can prevent individuals from making 9-1-1 and other emergency calls. Jammers can also interfere with law enforcement communications. You should take immediate steps to come into compliance and to avoid any recurrence of this misconduct. You may not advertise jamming devices for sale to any consumer in the United States through Craigslist or through any other means. Any operation of a signal jammer also must cease immediately, and you are strongly

Craigslist.org (Craigslist) is a website with classified ads and forums devoted to jobs, housing, personals, goods, services, and local activities. encouraged to voluntarily relinquish any illegal jamming devices remaining in your possession or inventory.

3. We emphasize that the mere posting of a jamming device for sale on Craigslist or any other online site or bulletin board targeting U.S. consumers contravenes federal law. Consistent with this federal prohibition, Craigslist expressly bars the sale and advertisement of signal jamming devices on its site.<sup>5</sup> Therefore, you have not only violated federal law, but also contravened the contractual agreement that governs your use of Craigslist. We will forward a copy of this Citation to Craigslist for any action it may find appropriate under the Craigslist Terms of Use.

4. As explained below and as provided in the Communications Act, future violations of the Rules in this regard may subject you to substantial monetary penalties, seizure of equipment, and criminal sanctions. Pursuant to Sections 4(i), 4(j), and 403 of the Communications Act,<sup>6</sup> we also direct you to:

- confirm within fifteen (15) calendar days after the release date of this Citation that you have ceased marketing and operating any jamming device;
- provide information concerning the source(s) from which you purchased or received the jamming devices you advertised on Craigslist as well as any other jamming devices you may have, or previously may have had, in your possession; and
- provide information concerning any jammer sales that you may have made.

II. BACKGROUND

5. On July 26, 2012, the Spectrum Enforcement Division of the Enforcement Bureau (Bureau) through its market surveillance efforts, observed an advertisement for a jamming device on Craigslist.<sup>7</sup> The advertisement offered for sale a “[p]ortable GSM+3G Cell Mobile Phone signal Jammer.” The posting, titled “Cell Phone Signal Jammer - $88 (Tupelo, Mississippi),” read in part:

This jammer system comes with a built in rechargeable Li-ion battery for hours of signal jamming, and with the included car power adapter, recharge and use this in your car as well as the office. Incredibly easy to operate, just switch it on and it will immediately start blocking CDMA, GSM, DCS and 3G to keep your immediate surrounds annoyance free. [sic]<sup>8</sup>

The advertisement also stated that bands of operation of the device were “850~960Mhz,” “1805~1990Mhz,” and “2110~2170Mhz” and listed the name of the business offering the jammer—“Dancing Bear Technologies.”<sup>9</sup>

<sup>7</sup> See <http://northmiss.craigslist.org/mob/3159163457.html> dated July 24, 2012 (last visited July 26, 2012). The Bureau also observed a second jammer advertisement on Craigslist.org from Dancing Bear Technologies. See <http://northmiss.craigslist.org/sls/3159186722.html> dated July 29, 2012 (last visited Aug. 6, 2012) (on file in EB-SED-12-00004534). This second posting offered a jammer for $99.95 and appealed to sales professionals, stating, “Don’t lose a sale due to a cell phone call interrupting your pitch. Flip this device on and make the sale and get paid!” A copy of these illegal advertisements is attached hereto as Appendix A.

6. On July 26, 2012, Bureau staff responded to the Craigslist posting via email and inquired about the jamming device.<sup>10</sup> Jason Carpenter replied to this email inquiry, and confirmed that Dancing Bear Technologies was offering signal jammers for sale.<sup>11</sup> He explained that the jammers were ordered from a supplier “as needed,” and were available with a turnaround time of “about 1-2 weeks.”<sup>12</sup>

III. APPLICABLE LAW AND VIOLATIONS

A. Marketing and operation of jammers prohibited by federal law

7. Federal law prohibits the advertising, sale, and operation of jamming devices in the United States and its territories. Section 301 of the Communications Act prohibits the use or operation of “any apparatus for the transmission of energy or communications or signals by radio” within the United States unless such use is licensed or authorized.<sup>13</sup> Section 333 of the Communications Act states that “[n]o person shall willfully or maliciously interfere with or cause interference to any radio communications of any station licensed or authorized by or under this Act or operated by the United States Government.”<sup>14</sup> In addition, Section 302(b) of the Communications Act provides that “[n]o person shall manufacture, import, sell, offer for sale, or ship devices or home electronic equipment and systems, or use devices, which fail to comply with regulations promulgated pursuant to this section.”<sup>15</sup>

8. The applicable implementing regulations for Section 302(b) are set forth in Sections 2.803, 15.201, and 15.3(o) of the Rules.<sup>16</sup> Section 2.803(a)(1) of the Rules provides that:

no person shall sell or lease, or offer for sale or lease (including advertising for sale or lease), or import, ship, or distribute for the purpose of selling or leasing or offering for sale or lease, any radio frequency device unless . . . [i]n the case of a device subject to certification, such device has been authorized by the Commission in accordance with the rules in this chapter and is properly identified and labeled as required by § 2.925 and other relevant sections in this chapter.<sup>17</sup>

Additionally, Section 2.803(g) of the Rules provides in relevant part that:

[R]adio frequency devices that could not be authorized or legally operated under the current rules . . . shall not be operated, advertised, displayed, offered for sale or lease, sold or leased, or otherwise marketed absent a license issued under part 5 of this chapter or a special temporary authorization issued by the Commission.<sup>18</sup>

9. Pursuant to Section 15.201(b) of the Rules,<sup>19</sup> intentional radiators<sup>20</sup> like jamming devices cannot be marketed in the United States or its territories unless they have first been authorized in accordance with the Commission's certification procedures. Section 2.803(e)(4) of the Rules defines "marketing" as the "sale or lease, or offering for sale or lease, including advertising for sale or lease, or importation, shipment or distribution for the purpose of selling or leasing or offering for sale or lease."<sup>21</sup>

10. Jamming devices, however, cannot be certified or authorized because their primary purpose is to block or interfere with authorized radio communications. Thus, jamming devices such as the one offered on Craigslist by Dancing Bear Technologies cannot comply with the FCC's technical standards and therefore cannot be marketed lawfully in the United States or its territories.<sup>22</sup>

B. Illegal signal jammer advertisements on Craigslist

11. The evidence indicates that Dancing Bear Technologies has willfully and repeatedly marketed at least two jamming devices to consumers in the United States. As noted above, beginning on July 24, 2012, Dancing Bear Technologies advertised a jamming device on Craigslist.<sup>23</sup> Dancing Bear Technologies also offered a second jammer for sale on July 29, 2012, and both of these listings remained active through late August. Craigslist is a classified advertisements website, generally involving an online listing for a product or service followed by an email or telephone exchange and an in-person meeting between the buyer and seller.<sup>24</sup> Craigslist users are prohibited from posting advertisements to multiple geographic areas.<sup>25</sup> Consistent with this policy, Dancing Bear Technologies posted its jammer advertisements on one of more than 300 local sites on Craigslist—the North Mississippi site, available at

<sup>22</sup> In very limited circumstances and consistent with applicable procurement requirements, individuals and/or entities may market jamming devices to the U.S. federal government for authorized, official use. See 47 U.S.C. § 302a(c); 47 C.F.R. § 2.807(d).

<sup>24</sup> See Craigslist Terms of Use, Section 4a, Postings, <http://www.craigslist.org/about/terms.of.use> (last visited July 31, 2012) (noting that "craigslist is intended and designed as a local service."). Craigslist permits an individual to post free classified advertisements for goods and services, and through its anonymize email feature, facilitates communications between the seller and the potential buyer. See <http://www.craigslist.org/about/anonymize> (last visited Aug. 9, 2012) (stating that if a seller selects the anonymize feature, the posting will display a Craigslist email address and that Craigslist will relay any messages sent to that address to the seller's email address).

<sup>25</sup> See Craigslist Terms of Use, Section 4a, Postings, <http://www.craigslist.org/about/terms.of.use> (last visited July 31, 2012) (noting also that "a user may post content only to the single specific geographic area offered on craigslist (see <http://www.craigslist.org/about/sites>) for which that content is most relevant" and that "[t]he same or substantially similar content (for example, an ad for a particular item or service, a particular offer, a particular message or a particular comment) may not be posted to or communicated via more than one such geographic area. Content that is equally relevant to multiple (i.e., more than one) geographic areas should not be posted on craigslist.").

<http://northmiss.craigslist.org>. These illegal online offers for sale were repeated in email correspondence with Bureau staff, where Mr. Carpenter confirmed that he was still marketing the jammer.<sup>26</sup>

12. We note that both the Craigslist Terms of Use and the Craigslist Prohibited Items List prohibit the sale and advertisement of cell phone jammers, GPS blockers, and other signal jamming devices. The Craigslist Terms of Use states: “Content prohibited from craigslist includes but is not limited to: . . . content in facilitation of the creation, advertising, distribution, provision or receipt of illegal goods or services.”<sup>27</sup> The Craigslist Prohibited Items List then applies this policy directly to signal jamming devices, noting that “[i]llegal telecommunications equipment, including . . . signal jamming devices,” is “not permitted on craigslist.”<sup>28</sup>

13. Accordingly, we find that Dancing Bear Technologies has willfully and repeatedly violated Section 302(b) of the Communications Act and Sections 2.803 and 15.201(b) of the Rules by marketing in the United States radio frequency devices that are not eligible for certification. We therefore issue this Citation to Dancing Bear Technologies for violating the Communications Act and the Rules as discussed above. Jamming devices pose significant risks to public safety and potentially compromise other radio communications services. Dancing Bear Technologies should take immediate steps to ensure that it does not continue to market jamming devices in the United States or its territories, including on Craigslist.

14. In addition, the operation of a jammer by an individual consumer, even on private property, is per se unlawful. This means that it is illegal for a consumer to use a jammer on mass transit (e.g., train, bus) or in a residence, vehicle, school, theater, restaurant or in any other public or private place. Operation of the devices advertised, or any other jamming device must cease immediately.<sup>29</sup>

15. We are increasingly concerned that individual consumers who operate jamming devices do not appear to understand the potentially grave consequences of using a jammer. Instead, these operators incorrectly assume that their illegal operation is justified by personal convenience or should otherwise be excused. The advertisements posted by Dancing Bear Technologies on Craigslist reinforce these misperceptions, promising the ability to “keep your immediate surrounds annoyance free.”<sup>30</sup> While we previously have issued warnings to operators in the first instance—primarily because non-monetary penalties historically have proven effective in deterring unlawful operation by individuals—we are not required to do so. We are mindful of the serious risks posed by jamming devices and the apparent need to provide greater incentives for individuals to cease the operation, importation, and sale of jamming devices altogether. Therefore, we caution you and other potential violators that going forward, and as circumstances warrant, we intend to impose substantial monetary penalties, rather than (or in addition to) warnings, on individuals who operate a jammer.<sup>31</sup> Furthermore, the issuance of the instant Citation does not preclude the Commission from taking additional enforcement action in this case.

<sup>31</sup> The illegal use of a signal jamming device within the United States may be reported to the FCC by calling the Enforcement Bureau jammer tip line, 1-855-55-NOJAM, or by filing a complaint at <http://www.fcc.gov/complaints>. For Frequently Asked Questions and other information regarding the illegal marketing or use of cell phone jammers,

16. We emphasize that if any jamming device remains within your possession or control, you are strongly urged to contact the Bureau to arrange to voluntarily relinquish the jammer. Except for the very limited context of authorized, official use by the federal government, jamming devices have no legal use in the United States. The Bureau's contact information is provided in paragraph 20 below.

IV. FUTURE COMPLIANCE

17. If after receipt of this Citation, Dancing Bear Technologies violates the Communications Act or the Rules by marketing or operating an unauthorized radio frequency device within the United States or its territories, or otherwise engaging in conduct of the type described herein, the Commission may impose monetary forfeitures of up to $16,000 for each such violation or, in the case of a continuing violation, the Commission may impose monetary forfeitures of up to $16,000 for each day of such continuing violation up to a maximum forfeiture of $112,500 for any single act or failure to act.<sup>32</sup> For instance, the Commission could impose separate forfeitures for each signal jammer sold and/or for each day on which a signal jammer is operated, advertised, or otherwise offered for sale. Violations of the Communications Act or the Rules can also result in seizure of equipment through in rem forfeiture actions,<sup>33</sup> as well as criminal sanctions, including imprisonment.<sup>34</sup>

18. In addition to providing the required information described in paragraph 22 below, you may respond to this Citation either through (1) a personal interview at the closest FCC office, which must take place within thirty (30) calendar days of the release date of this Citation, or (2) submission of a written statement, within fifteen (15) calendar days after the release date of this Citation. Any written statement should specify the actions you have taken to ensure that you do not violate the Communications Act or the Rules governing the marketing or operation of jamming devices in the future. Please reference file number EB-SED-12-00004534 when corresponding with the Commission.

19. Under the Privacy Act of 1974, any statement or information you provide may be used by the Commission to determine if further enforcement action is required.<sup>35</sup> Section 1.17 of the Rules also requires that you provide truthful and accurate statements to the Commission.<sup>36</sup> Any knowingly or willfully false statement, or concealment of any material fact, made in reply to this Citation is punishable by fine or imprisonment.<sup>37</sup>

APPENDIX B

Craigslist Prohibited Items List

craigslist > about > prohibited items

Many laws, regulations and policies, in a variety of jurisdictions, regulate the goods and services that may be bought and sold. For your convenience, we have prepared a list of some of the types of prohibited and restricted items the advertisement for sale, offer, or exchange of which is not permitted on craigslist.

craigslist users remain responsible for complying with all applicable laws, regulations or restrictions on items, services, or manner of sale, payment or exchange, that may apply to transactions in which they participate -- including but not limited to those imposed by the state of California, where craigslist physically resides. We encourage you to research the applicable laws and regulations that may apply to your usage of and activities on and relating to craigslist.

Partial list of items for sale and services the advertisement of which is not permitted on craigslist:

- Child pornography, obscene materials, offers or solicitation of illegal prostitution.
- Weapons and related items, including firearms, ammunition, silencers, pellet/BB guns, tear gas or stun guns.
- Items issued to United States Armed Forces that have not been disposed of in accordance with Department of Defense demilitarization policies.
- Food stamps, WIC vouchers, SNAP EBT cards, SNAP or WIC foods, infant formula, etc and other items received from governmental agencies or programs.
- Fireworks, including "safe and sane" fireworks or any destructive devices or explosives.
- Alcohol or tobacco products. Controlled substances or illegal drugs, substances and items used to manufacture controlled substances and drug paraphernalia.
- Prescription drugs and medical devices, including prescription or contact lenses, defibrillators, hypodermic needles or hearing aids. Nonprescription drugs that make false or misleading treatment claims or treatment claims that require FDA approval.
- Blood, bodily fluids or body parts.
- Household pets of any kind including dogs, cats, primates, cage birds, rodents, reptiles, amphibians, fish. Re-homing with small adoption fee OK. Pet animal parts, blood, or fluids are also not permitted, including stud/breeding service.
- Restricted or regulated plants and insects, including noxious weeds, endangered plant species, or live insects or pests.
- Pesticides or hazardous substances, or items containing hazardous substances including contaminated toys, or art or craft material containing toxic substances without a warning label.
- Illegal telecommunications equipment, including access cards, signal jamming devices, password sniffers, unloopers, or cable descramblers
